

St Francis Admonition Day 28.

Of True Love.

Blessed is that person who would love their fellow human as much as when they are ill and not able to assist, as they would love their fellow humans when they are well, and are able to assist.

Blessed is the person who would love and fear their fellow human, as much when they are from them, as they would when they are with him. Who would not say anything about them, behind their backs that could not, with charity, be said in their presence.